WESTERLY

Herbert Osman Dunn, new admiral United States navy, born in Westerly and always a legal resident of the town, has succeeded Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood, as commander of the First Naval district at Boston. He is Rhode Island's highest ranking officer in army or navy, of native birth and one of the youngest admirals in the navy, having been born May 20, 1857. Since January of last year he has been commander of American Marine Base, No. 12, at Porto Delgado, Azores, where he was sent to protect the islands in connection with naval operations of the American navy in the Atlantic and to collaborate with Portugal for victory over the common enemy.

Rear Admiral Dunn has served in the principal naval stations in all parts of the world in active service. He graduated from the naval academy June 18, 1879, in the class, and made ensign March 12, 1881. He was promoted to be rear admiral, August 6, 1913.

Rev. Samuel H. Davis, lawyer, counsel for the Anti-Saloon league for the enforcement of prohibition laws, a member of the legislature from Westerly, delivered an address at the meeting of the Providence Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Starting out with the statement that the eighteenth amendment is now a reality, Mr. Davis added that congress or the state legislature were empowered to report legislation for its enforcement, but emphasized the fact that whatever position taken by local legislators the federal law must always take precedence. In respect to the contention that four per cent. beer is not intoxicant a number of statistics were given.

Mr. Davis, while admitting that there might be a struggle ahead, presented on the whole a very optimistic view of the situation and he supported his belief by an array of facts quoted from some of the cities where prohibition had been enforced. In conclusion he paid tribute to the high ideals for which Old Glory stands and predicted that, by the long step toward national prohibition, the country had added still another glory to the national emblem.

Westerly is ready to contribute to the Salvation Army fund and will make good in the May 19 to 23 drive. Westerly's quota will be $2,500 of the total of $12,000 to be raised. South Kingdon $100; North Kingdon, $500; Richmond, $100.67; Hopkinton, $166.67; Charlestown, $83.34; Exeter, $67.67.

He leaves a widow and two children. He was a member of Narragansett Lodge, Westerly, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and had always resided here before going to Newport two years ago. He was fatally injured while working on a practice torpedo head. A circular from plate, known as a bulkhead blew out, struck him in the head fracturing his skull. He died when on the way to the naval hospital.

The torpedo head was charged with compressed air and whether the accident was caused by excessive pressure or a defect in the torpedo has not been ascertained.

Westerly is prodding along in the Victory Loan drive and will surely be in the front at the finish of the drive. The adjoining town of Hopkinton is the only town that has gone over the top with substantial results. Westerly, which is practically thirteen per cent. of its allotment. Westerly has subscribed $118,009; Charlestown $8,200; East Greenwich $1,000; North Kingdon $12,500; North Kingdon, $1,450; Richmond, $10,500; South Kingdon, $24,750.

Practically every soldier and sailor, too, who has been discharged and has returned home from service and resides in Westerly, will participate in the welcome home demonstration to be held in Providence today. Every city, town and hamlet in the state will be represented and the parade will be reviewed by Major General Clarence R. Edwards and Admiral William S. Sims. Colonel Charles F. Tillamush, grand marshal, has appointed Major Robert R. Dean, Eighteenth division, adjutant of the parade, with Captain Robert G. Thackeray (Westerly) coast artillery, assistant adjutant.

That joint committee appointed to arrange for the observance of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the incorporation of the town of Westerly, May 14, and which failed to function, has been succeeded by an active committee and the date of celebration has been advanced to the week of June 22. Whether the celebration will be for three days or six days will depend upon the amount of money subscribed. At a meeting held Wednesday evening, Everett E. Whipple was chosen temporary chairman, Thomas McKenzie, secretary and Arthur L. Perry, an executive committee was chosen. Francis G. Hart was chosen chairman of the town council, Charles J. Butler the board of trade, Harvey C. Perry, the historical society, and Fred S. Ople the merchants and citizens. The executive committee was empowered to select all sub-committees.
